WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT 24 1862

Willamette Woolen Manufactory

We visited this establishment a few days ago, and must say that we were no little surprised to see the considerable amount of machinery and business like appearance of the establishment, all in active motion and apparently driven with incessant speed. The company have purchased nearly 240,000 pounds of wool this season, and are averaging a little over 4,000 yards of cloth manufactured per week. We examined several samples of the cloth manufactured, and without professing to be a skillful judge, were nevertheless satisfied that the quality was excellent and the texture fine. However, a large number of the citizens of this State have long since had better opportunities than we have had to test the good qualities of the various cloths, blankets, etc., manufactured at this establishment hence our opinion upon this point is unnecessary. We were shown several pieces of excellent flannel, of various colors, which have recently been manufactured and pronounced superior to much of the flannel brought from other localities.

We were also informed that the company have another full set of machinery coming on from the East, which is designed to be set up somewhere in Linn county, we believe when it is expected that the two establishments will be able to manufacture all the wool grown in the State for years to come. At present it is believed that seven-eighths of the wool grown in the State is manufactured into cloth by this establishment. For the last three years the increase of wool has been very considerable, as also its quality. The quality of wool now brought to market is far superior to that produced before the erection of this manufactory. There is still room for improvement and we are pleased to know that farmers are turning their attention to this important and profitable branch of industry.

The great agony as to relative to the disputed title to the land donated to the company. This tract was sold last Saturday by order of the Court, fixing this mode as the final settlement of the case, and was purchased by the company at $15,200 10. The tract embraces ten acres of ground, more or less, and the sale included the old grist-mill, and all appurtenances, except the factory building and certain out-houses. Considerable interest was manifested at the sale by certain interested parties, but the general opinion was expressed that the company paid full value for the land. Mr. J. L. Parrish was the opposing bidder, and succeeded in running the price fully up to what he expected to receive, being the claimant to one third thereof. Mr. Pratt, the gentlemanly and efficient agent for the company, informed us that the company contemplate the erection of several costly buildings and other important improvements upon this ground, including a new grist mill with all the modern machinery for manufacturing flour of the first quality. The location and erection of such improvements will add much to the credit and importance of Salem, and prove beneficial to a large portion of the State. We wish the company entire success.

Oregon to Pay the Direct Tax.—The following bill was introduced in the Senate by Mr. Hovey, of Benton county, Chairman of the Committee on Federal Relations. It will no doubt pass and meet the approval of every loyal man in the State:

A Bill for the support of the Government, and to pay the sum apportioned to be paid by this State, of the Direct Tax levied by the Act of Congress, approved the fifth day of August, 1861.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, That the sum of $29,869 09 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury, not otherwise appropriated for the payment to the Government of the United States, of the amount apportioned to be paid by this State, of the direct tax levied by the Act of Congress, approved the fifth day of August, 1861.

Sec. 2. That the sum of $10,000 of said amount be paid by the State Treasurer, whenever the proper officer of the Treasury Department of the United States, shall draw upon the Treasury of this State therefor, and the sum of $19,869 09 shall be paid likewise upon like draft, drawn at any time after the first day of March next.

Sec. 3. Inasmuch as there is no Act authorizing the payment of said direct tax, and the same is now due and ought to be paid without delay, this Act shall be in force from and after its passage.

Looms Up.—The Corvallis Union (secesh) after having been discontinued for lack of support, again looms up bearing the damnable mark of treason on its front, and ready to spread its hated doctrines far and wide. Its baneful presence, however, will not be suffered long, for the Union loving people of Benton and adjoining counties will nip it in the bud by refusing to give it aid in the way of patronage.

Social.—The ladies of Salem extended to the members of the Legislature, officers and reporters, an invitation to attend a social entertainment which was to be given by them in the Odd Fellow's Hall at that place last night, the 23d. They unanimously accepted the invitation and no doubt all were present. It must have been a splendid affair.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS

Senate.

Monday, Sept. 22, 1862.

Senate met at the usual hour—10 o'clock. President Bowlby in the Chair. Roll called and there being no quorum present, adjourned till two o'clock P. M.

Afternoon Session.—Senate met as usual. Roll called and quorum being present the Journal of the forenoon session was read and approved. An invitation was received from a committee of ladies of Salem inviting the members of the Senate, their families, to a social entertainment to be given in the Odd Fellow's Hall on Tuesday evening next. Mr. Hovey introduced a resolution accepting the invitation, which was passed unanimously.

Mr. Mitchell introduced S. B. No. 11—An Act providing for the payment of bounties to volunteers by each county in the State. Read first time. Messrs. Grim and Holton were appointed a committee to enroll bills. Mr. Lot Hall moved that the rules of Senate Bill No. 9, relative to general incorporations be printed for use of Senate; carried. Adjourned.

House.

September 22, 1862.

House met according to adjournment.

Roll called. None absent.

Proceedings of Friday read and adopted.

Mr. Ballard offered a petition from citizens of Clackamas and Washington in regard to a change in county lines. Referred to members of those counties.

Mr. Hunnason of Wasco offered a petition from citizens of Wasco county asking for an appropriation for the relief of Wasco county on account of expenses incurred in Indian troubles.

Mr. Hunnason offered a petition from the people of Wasco for more relief.

Both petitions referred to committee on ways and means.

Committee on engrossed bills reported.

H. B. No. 20, an act to prevent accidents on the highway—referred to committee of the whole.

H. B. No. 21, an act regulating the salaries of County Judges—referred to committee of the whole.

S. B. No. 1—a substitute of H. B. No. 10—a bill to defray expenses of newspapers, &c., of members of the Legislature. Passed to the third reading.

H. B. No. 23, to declare the Calapooia navigable. Passed to second reading.

H. B. No. 4, a bill for relief of school district No. 16, in Josephine county. Referred to the committee on enrolled bills with instructions to report a bill for a general law, if practicable.

H. B. No. 27, to provide for fixing the commencement and closing the terms of State and County officers. Referred to committee on ways and means.

H. B. No. 28, a bill to tax Chinese and to tax negroes and Kanakas. Referred to a committee composed of members from the mining districts. Reconsidered and referred to committee of the whole house.

H. B. No. 29, a bill to regulate marriages. Referred to committee of the whole.

S. B. No. 7, an act prescribing certain conditions on which money can be drawn from the State Treasury—requiring oath and evidence of loyalty of all persons claiming money from the State. The rules were suspended and the bill passed to the third reading.

S. B. No. 7 was discussed and passed 17 to 15.

Mr. Fay of Josephine offered a protest, which was entered upon the journals.

The speaker gave notice that he had signed H. B. No. 3, being the bill to organize Baker county.

H. B. No. 25, the insane bill, was reported back. The report was adopted and the bill passed to the third reading.

H. B. No. 19, a bill for a redemption fund for Josephine county, was reported, recommending that the bill be indefinitely postponed. The bill was postponed.

Adjourned to 7 o'clock this evening.

From the Upper Columbia

We condense the following items from the Walla Walla Statesman:

Mr. Mossman exhibited to the editor a "specimen" from Wilson's Gulch, near Auburn, weighing six ounces, entirely free from quartz, and valued at over a hundred dollars. Another from near the same place weighed $18 50.

Prospecting parties have found gold in almost all the streams about Simcoe—on some, four and five dollar diggings have been found.

There are now about one hundred and seventy-five wagons engaged in hauling freight between Wallula, Walla Walla and Lewiston.

The Snake Indians came into Powder river valley on the 14th inst., and drove off forty American horses and mules. They then passed over to Burnt river and stole six horses from a party of prospectors who were on their way to Boise river.

Indian Depredations.—An emigrant writes the following to the Walla Walla Statesman:

"The company in which I came was attacked at Big Pines, twelve miles west of Green river on the 13th of July. One man by the name of Moran was killed. His son was wounded by an arrow through the wrist, another was wounded in the back by two arrows, and also received a rifle ball through the thigh. They have both recovered. The Indians got twelve head of cattle and five horses. We gave chase, but did not recover the stock. The Indians returned the following night and tried to stampede our stock, but we gave them buck shot and bullets so fast it soon dried up their heathen yelling. The next night they stampeded our stock, but they got none of them. They broke down three wagons, broke off the horns of several cattle, bruising and laming many which caused many to give out on the road. At Goose creek they stole nineteen head of cattle and four horses. Here we pursued them and they gave us battle. Several of the Indians were killed and one of our men was wounded in the arm. We cut the ball out and the man has nearly recovered. After these we were so much on our guard the Indians were afraid to attack us. Other trains generally suffered more than ours. The troops were sent out I suppose to protect emigrants. The way they protect them is by galloping up and down the road which is quite unlike the red skins. The only way to treat savages in these parts is to run them to their holes and then crawl in and haul them out and scalp them."

In the town of St. Armands, New York (formerly North Elba) where John Brown lived and was buried, of the eighty voters in the town seventy have enlisted. Their neighbors and the women agreed to gather in the crops for those who have gone and can be seen any day busily at work.

Unknown Wreck.—The British Colonist of the 21 says that about the middle of July the master of the sloop Rebel Chief, saw a vessel of 500 tons burthen dock up, dismasted, drifting about in Queen Charlotte's Sound. The forward part of the vessel was out of water and covered with barnacles.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LATER FROM THE EAST.

DATES TO SEPT. 17.

Evacuation of Harper's Ferry.

Another Battle.

GEN. LONGSTREET KILLED

Battle still Raging.

FEDERAL ARMS VICTORIOUS.

Rebels still Retreating.

Yreka, Sept. 19.—Reports of [illegible] Sept. 18.—The battle of South Mountain Gap resulted in a complete Federal victory. The battle field was located in a gorge of the mountain on the turnpike between Middletown and Boonsboro. At twelve o'clock Gen. Reno ordered the ascent of the mountain on the left for the purpose of flanking the enemy. The battle that followed with musketry for half an hour was terrible, resulting in the enemy giving way and leaving our troops in possession of that part of the ridge. General Hooker ascended the mountain on the right, getting his troops into position and moving on the enemy. Two hours before sundown, as on the other ridge, our troops were successful in driving the enemy before them with great slaughter.

The rebels have suffered more than at other parts of the field. If our troops could have had daylight for two hours longer the greater portion of the rebel army would have been captured, as they were nearly surrounded on all sides. They escaped however, through a narrow defile in the mountain which our artillery would have made impassible. All their wounded were left on the field. Gen. Franklin's attack on the enemy at Barketts ville Gap six miles from Harper's Ferry, also resulted in their complete rout after a single charge. Gen. Hancock's Brigade captured the batteries, six pieces, of Howe's Battery. The rebel loss since Monday last, in front of Gen. Hooker, is five hundred of his Georgians during the day and night. Fully 15,000 of the enemy were killed, wounded and missing.

Gen. Lee acknowledged to the citizens of Boonsboro that he had been defeated with terrible loss. Our killed and wounded probably reach 4000. Gen. Richardson's division came up with the enemy two and a half miles from Sharpsburg, where they were drawn up in line of battle on a range of hills. Richardson's force not being sufficiently strong to attack was made.

Frederick City, Sept. 19.—After the battles of South Mountain Gap and Barketts ville Gap the rebels fell back rapidly to Boonsboro and thence southward to Sharpsburg, and began crossing the Potomac above and below Shepardsville. The pursuit by our troops was rapid. Longstreet was hard from Hagerstown to reinforce the rear fighting at the Gap and arrived in time to join the rout. Previous to the news of the surrender of Harper's Ferry, such a disposition had been made of our troops as would have resulted in the capture of nearly the entire rebel force.

The number of prisoners sent to the rear yesterday, will probably reach eight thousand. Our loss will not exceed two thousand killed and wounded, with a small proportion missing.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The Herald's dispatch from Frederick, Sept. 16th, says an officer just from Harper's Ferry reports the rebels have evacuated that place in great hurry, not even waiting to parole the prisoners taken.

Harrisburg, Sept. 17.—The battle yesterday closed without any definite result. No firing was heard at Hagerstown after 4 o'clock. Stragglers come in, who report that Long street was killed, and that the rebels were surrounded. A battle commenced near Gettysville this morning. Jackson reinforced Lee with 40,000 troops, and our forces were reinforced with 30,000. Up to the latest advices victory illuminates our standard. The impression prevails in Hagerstown that the whole rebel army has been badly used up. Confidence prevails here that we have won a great and decisive victory. Among our troops are many batteries and thousands of small arms, prisoners, etc.

The rebel Gen. D. H. Hill is killed. Ten thousand Pennsylvania militia will meet the foe at Hagerstown.

A severe engagement took place yesterday, near Sharpsburg, in which the enemy suffered considerable slaughter. 500 of their dead were buried by our forces, and the work still going on.

Burnside has retaken Harper's Ferry and is advancing on a special mission with his corps.

Philadelphia, 18th.—A special from Hagerstown says of the fight of Tuesday: The battle raged with great spirit and firing on both sides continued till sundown, when the rebels were flanked by Hooker and Porter and severely punished. Their firing became desultory and it was evident their ammunition was giving out.

In the morning the fight was renewed with vigor by the rebels. They acted as if they had been reinforced and furnished with fresh ammunition. The battle lasted till 4 o'clock, p. m., when the rebels retreated and left Longstreet and a remnant of his division in our hands, prisoners.

The entire rebel army will be captured or killed. There was no chance left for them to cross the Potomac, as the river was rising and our troops were pushing them continually—sending the prisoners to the rear.

Miles' surrender of Harpers Ferry is regarded here as shameful.

Six batteries of Longstreet's division were captured yesterday.

To day it is said 15,000 have been taken since Sunday.

Jackson's army is with Lee and they with other distinguished officers will be forced to surrender within a day or two at furthest.—Our Generals are certain of an ultimate and decisive success.

New York, 18th.—The Herald's Washington correspondence of 17th says that at three o'clock this P. M. nothing had been received that since two o'clock this morning the fiercest and most sanguinary battle of the war is progressing. All the corps d'armie which McClellan took with him to Frederick were massed at a point indicated, and an engagement appears to have ensued between the whole two armies.

There is reason to suppose that the losses are so great as to cause a requisition for medical stores and arrangements for the wounded to be conveyed to Rockville—the number injured being much greater than ever before.

Information is received that McClellan destroyed the aqueduct at the mouth of the Antietam creek and the bridge across that creek leading to Sharpsburg—thus cutting off the retreat of the rebels in the direction of Shepardsville.

Gen. Banks.—The Baltimore Sun very justly says of this great man:

Few Generals that the present war has developed have so well maintained through thick and thin the confidence of the people as General Banks. A civilian until the war broke out he has on the field won the highest commendations of officers who have made military science their study and military art their practice for years. A graduate of New England common schools he has at the age of 46 made a reputation as a machinist, a statesman, and a soldier. These are times that try men's souls. Very many great men of two years ago have been found cowards, small men—some who stood first in square disputed pictures as humbugs, while others whose greatness was unsuspected before loom out leaders of most solid quality. Banks was one of the sort whom his friends prophesied that the better the time the more excellent a man he would be found. He had been in peril on previous occasions and earned the title of the iron man, as much for his natural qualities as for the business in which he first made himself known to the Massachusetts people.

The jewels of the Egyptian Queen Aah Hotep who lived 1,800 years before Christ and who's tomb was discovered by a French archæologist in 1850 were to be exhibited at the International Exhibition in London.—When found at Gourah the body of the Queen was [illegible] with objects in gold and silver, a fan of massive gold encrusted with precious stones, all richly chased with the heads of sphinxes and bound together with a [illegible] of wrought like a mesh work of solid gold, weighing from 40 to three dozen of solid gold, two chests of bows and arrows in silver.

An Irish Patriot.—An Irishman at New Haven having had nine children in eight years, wrote to his friends in Portland, Or., which will receive more than the amount in property the old Gentleman has services. Apply immediately at FAULKNER'S EMPLOYMENT OFFICE, Sept. 20, 1862. In Carter's Building.

My Method of Growing Onions.

MR EDITOR — As some of my neighbors admire the size and quality of the onions I grow, I am induced to communicate my method, for the benefit of your readers

In the fall I throw up the ground intended for my onion bed into ridges I do this for the purpose of exposing the much ameliorating influences of the frost upon the soil, for if there is any one thing which I can observe loves in its early stages of growth than another, it is a finely pulverized soil As soon as the weather will permit in the spring, (no matter how early,) I level the ridges, and smooth the ground fit for sowing the seed This, for several seasons past, I have succeeded in doing during the latter part of February As early in March as the season will admit, I sow my seed in drills, about half an inch deep, and sixteen inches apart, covering the seeds well with the back of a light rake, and press it down lightly with my foot In about two or three weeks, the plants begin to appear As soon as I observe them, I sprinkle the beds with wood ashes, so that the ground is fairly covered This kills or drives away the worm, and has the effect of stimulating the growth of the plants Once a week, at least, and sometimes more frequently, I hoe the ground well between the rows, and as soon as the plants begin to form bulbs, I give them three or four good waterings with strong soap-suds, at intervals of as many days It is not my practice to check growth, by breaking down the tops, they being permitted to stand as long as they have strength to do so; and just as soon as the tops fall of themselves, I pull the onions By this plan I get fine large onions in a single season, from seed, a feat not always accomplished in this latitude —Ohio Farmer and Gardener.

About Cranberries.

1st. What soil is best adapted to the culture of the cranberry? and how should it be prepared?

2d. Is a cranberry meadow likely to prove durable after the vines are regularly rooted?

3d. Can cranberries be successfully transplanted?

4th. Does the soil need ourching, as in the case of other vegetables?

The answers to these questions will, perhaps, meet the points of inquiry so often repeated in the course of a few weeks. To the first I reply: That low, wet land is the best. It must not, however, be too wet—the surface water, if any there be, should be removed by drains; and where the water has not been so deep as to prevent the formation of a tough sod, it will be necessary to pare off the sod to a sufficient depth to remove all grass roots. A sufficient number of drains should be cut to dispose of all redundant matter and not more—for the ground should be moist. I think it well to close up the drains in the fall, and let the water spread over the meadow during the winter. It will do the plants no injury, but will be likely to prevent weeds and grass from taking root, and growing, which would soon prove too much for the plants in question. The sod if snugly piled, will soon furnish an excellent compost for fruit trees

The ground thus deprived of its sod and surface water is prepared for the plant.—The first thing in the labor of transplanting, is to open shallow, parallel trenches, 1½ or 2 feet apart; into these trenches I plant my vines—varying from one to eight feet in length. These I cover slightly every six or eight inches, when the labor of transplanting is done The plant, now left to the secret operation of natural laws, will leave its ligaments into the yielding soil, and send its slender tendrils outward, until, in the course of two or three years, it covers the entire surface—and from the first year of its setting, it will reward the labor and time given to it in a greatly increasing ratio. April and May I consider the best time for setting plants—as those set in the fall are more likely to be raised out by the freezing of winter.—Cortes Rural New Yorker.

CIDER FOR DYEING PURPOSES—The Mark Lane Express says. "We are threatened with a cider famine, not from the failure of apples, but because they are likely to be applied to a more profitable purpose, so far as the growers are concerned, than to making a household beverage It seems that the Manchester dyers and printers have discovered that apple juice supplies a desideratum long wanted in making fast colors for their printed cottons, and numbers of them have been into Devonshire and the lower parts of Somersetshire buying up all the apples they can get, and giving such a price for them as in the dearest years hitherto known has not been offered We know of one farmer in Devonshire who has a large orchard, for the produce of which he never before received more than £250, and yet he has just sold it this year to a Manchester buyer for £360 There can be no doubt that the discovery will create quite a revolution in the apple trade."
